

Using AI for Code with Trust

Singapore Manifesto on AI-Driven Innovations for Code

January 19, 2026

2026

Introduction

Generative AI is rapidly changing the landscape of software engineering. However, a key challenge remains - how can we incorporate AI as a reliable part of next-generation development? At the Singapore Manifesto, invitees from all over the world, working in academia, industry, and government, come together in Singapore to discuss the opportunities and risks of this technological change. Join us to map the future of trustworthy software development with AI.

Meet the Organizers

Abhik Roychoudhury

Provost's Chair Professor, NUS

Senior Advisor, Sonar

Abhik Roychoudhury is Provost's Chair Professor of Computer Science at the National University of Singapore (NUS), where he leads a research team on Trustworthy and Secure Software (TSS). He is Senior Advisor at Sonar, subsequent to the acquisition of his spinoff AutoCodeRover on AI agents for coding. He received his PhD in Computer Science from the Stony Brook University in 2000, and has been a faculty member at NUS School of Computing since 2001. Abhik's group at NUS has focused on symbolic program analysis, along with applications of program analysis to areas such as computer security, agentic AI or cyber-physical systems. These works have been honored with various awards including an International Conference on Software Engineering (ICSE) Most Influential Paper Award (Test-of-time award) for (symbolic analysis based) program repair, IEEE New Directions Award 2022 (jointly with Cristian Cadar) for contributions to symbolic execution.

Abhik was the inaugural recipient of the NUS Outstanding Graduate Mentor Award 2024. Doctoral students graduated from his research team have taken up faculty positions in many top academic institutions. He has served the software engineering research community in various capacities including as chair of the major conferences of the field, ICSE (in 2024) and FSE (in 2022). Currently, he serves as chair of the FSE steering committee. He is a member of the editorial board of Communications of the ACM. He is the current Editor-in-Chief of the ACM Transactions on Software Engineering and Methodology (TOSEM). Abhik is a Fellow of the ACM, recognized for contributions to automated program repair and fuzz testing.

Baishakhi Ray

Associate Professor, Columbia University

Baishakhi Ray is an Associate Professor in the Department of Computer Science at Columbia University in New York, USA. Her research lies at the intersection of Artificial Intelligence and Software Engineering, with a particular focus on developing intelligent, trustworthy tools for improving software reliability, security, and developer productivity.

Dr. Ray's work has been recognized with several honors, including the IEEE TCSE Rising Star Award, NSF CAREER Award, IBM, and VMWare Faculty Awards. Her publications have received multiple Distinguished Paper Awards at top venues, the ICSME Test of Time Award, and have been featured in CACM Research Highlights, reflecting the broad impact of her research on both the academic and industrial communities. She also serves as an Amazon Scholar, collaborating with the Amazon Q Agentic AI team to build intelligent developer agents grounded in real-world software engineering practice.
